

Five Farewells: A Southern Life With Dissociative Identity Disorder

In my dreams I sometimes walk through a winter wood. Its the deepest forest, and in my childs heart, at seven, Im only skeptical of my surroundings. I walk slowly. The sun sometimes stings my eyes from certain angles. Its only from the suns angle, with partial cover, that I see the red water pump. The water pump is an object that I wasnt familiar with except on TV, and even in my childs mind I wonder why its there, in the woods, in the middle of nowhere, and in my dreams, but when I did remember the red water pump in my life, outside of my dreams, my heart hurt, but not for myself, but for life, and what life had done.
