

Migrating Genders: Westernisation, Migration, and Samoan Faafafine (Anthropology and Cultural History in Asia and the Indo-Pacific)

Migrating Genders presents a sustained description of male-to-female transgendered identities, explaining how the faafafine fit within the wider gender system of Samoa, and examining both the impact of Westernization on faafafine identities and lives, and the experiences of faafafine who have migrated to New Zealand. Informed by theories of sex, gender and embodiment, this book explores the manner in which the expression and understanding of non-normative gendered identities in Samoa problematizes dominant western understandings of the relationship between sex and gender. Drawing on rich empirical material, this book tells of both the diversity and the uniqueness of faafafine identities, aspects which faafafine have maintained in the face of Westernization, migration, and cultural marginalization in both Samoa and New Zealand. As such, in addition to anthropologists, it will be of interest to geographers, sociologists, and other readers with interests in gender and sexuality.
