

When Addictions Threaten (Christian Care)

Written from a Biblical perspective, the booklet discusses the addictive nature of sin and offers practical suggestions for those threatened. It provides brief, easy-to-understand and easy-to-use Christian presentations of various destructive substances and behavior addictions and the help available for those threatened by addictions. The author discussed various kinds of addictions from the commonality of alcohol and drug addictions to food, work, sex, romance, gambling and Internet addictions. He also describes the characteristics of addictions and how to deal with them. The final chapter highlights ways Christians can provide competent care for others who are subject to addictions, as well as for those already addicted.
