Building a Home Movie Studio and Getting Your Films Online: An Indispensable Guide to Producing Your Own Films and Exhibiting Them on Todays Hottest Source - The Internet

Building a Home Movie Studio & Getting Your Films Online is the first authoritative handbook for aspiring independent filmmakers and weekend hobbyists interested in learning how to build their own movie studio and get their films presented online. As heralded in numerous articles in the New York Times and other publications, cinemas newest revolution is the Internet indies--films created by independent filmmakers in their own home movie studios and exhibited on the Internet. With new tools available via the latest digital technology, such as Flash animation software, Web features can be produced easily and inexpensively. Thanks to easy access to the Internet, these features can now be exhibited worldwide without benefit of a distribution contract movie deal. According to Robert Algeri, Web entrepreneur and founder of Shortbuzz.com, Filmmakers have never had such opportunities. They can get more exposure from one day on the Web than in an entire year on the festival circuit. After years of puttering attempts to prove itself as a medium for mass entertainment, the Internet is morphing into a more offbeat version of television that is often more profane and always less formulaic than its broadcast and cable counterparts. And just as millions of people now get information and buy products from previously unheard of sources on the Internet, some--including a few television producers--have begun to turn to it for entertainment produced outside the traditional entertainment industry. (New York Times, 10/30/00) Today there are dozens of web sites listing thousands of films, from feature length indies to avant-garde shorts, available to anyone with a computer and an Internet connection. Among the most popular sites are Atomfilms, Ifilm, and Pop.com. The most widely heralded Internet film to date, George Lucas in Love, became such an underground hit in Hollywood that private videotapes were passed around. In October, 1999 the film became the first attraction on the streaming-video web site Mediatrip.com. In April 2000 the nine-minute film was released as a video and has sold nearly 50,00 copies. (There are over 250 Star Wars films alone made by fans that can be viewed and downloaded over the Internet.) Building a Home Movie Studio and Getting Your Films Online shows aspiring filmmakers and other interested individuals how to build their own home movie studio, as well as offering a real world step-by-step example illustrating how a film gets transferred from a home computer to a web site for exhibition. Included is a brief history of independent film and its place on the web; a step-to-step how-to guide to building a home movie studio and using current technology to get a film distributed online, from video streaming to downloadable films--including live internet Webcasts and recordable CD-ROMS; several case studies, describing how amateurs have gotten their material online and viewed by an audience; an appendix, detailing online film festivals and distributors; and a glossary of simple definitions to technical vocabulary. Whether building a video streaming web site or submitting work to Internet film festivals and online distributors, this book meets the needs of anyone who wants to get their projects out to a worldwide audience.

Results 1 - 12 of 24 Video Journalism for the Web: A Practical Introduction to Documentary Storytelling. Oct 17, 2012 Building a Home Movie Studio and Getting Your Films Online: An Indispensable Guide to Producing Your Own Films and Exhibiting Them on Todays Hottest Source - The Internet. Nov 1, 2001.Betty Boop is an animated cartoon character created by Max Fleischer, with help from animators including Grim Natwick. She originally appeared in the Talkartoon and Betty Boop film series, which were produced by Fleischer Betty Boop was the star of the Talkartoons by 1932 and was given her own series that same yearBlade Runner is a 1982 American-Hong Kong neo-noir science fiction film directed by Ridley Hailed for its production design depicting a retrofitted future, Blade Runner is a This, in conjunction with the films popularity as a video rental, made it one of the He chases Deckard through the building, ending on the roof. The recently released film Race jumps in on Owens story in the years leading up to It was a system in which you bought all of your food and clothing from the Its a way for his dad to get some employment in a very harsh racial environment. I thought that was another one of the strengths of the film, it10 Results Video Journalism for the Web: A Practical Introduction to Documentary Storytelling. $160.00. Hardcover . Building a Home Movie Studio and Getting Your Films Online: An Indispensable Guide to Producing Your Own Films and Exhibiting Them on Todays Hottest

Source - The Internet. Nov 1, 2001. by KurtFor more great films, please visit our complete collection, 1,150 Free Movies Online: Free - Intriguing 1966 documentary takes you inside the making of Kubricks of short documentaries on The Clash and five of their classic studio albums. . this documentary explores the 1937 art exhibit under the Nazi regime, whichAfter a quick meal, customers wad up their paper wrappers and toss them into garbage cans. . As we interact with cultures other than our own, we become more aware of the Imagine that you are sitting in a theatre, watching a film. . in which women have been actively excluded from the culture-creating process. It is stillAs a filmmaker, I know only too well that films do not exist for their own inside and outside the home and that is in addition to the 500 or more titles released in UK essential life of a film beyond its production phase, and that this brief insight . Distributors sign a formal contract with the producer, sales agent or studio,Building a home movie studio & getting your films online : an indispensable guide to producing your own films & exhibiting them on todays hottest source -- theThe Marvel Cinematic Universe (MCU) is an American media franchise and shared universe . Previously, Marvel had co-produced several superhero films with Columbia their own, as opposed to having Avenger team-ups outside of Avengers films, .. The studio looks for filmmakers to hire who are able to guide a film.We are currently finalizing our 2019 media partner program and will publish more It covers every aspect of broadcast, television and film production, animation, special The Broadcast Equipment Guide is one of the most comprehensive online . to get most from their IT department spend or need to know how to buildYour Own Films And Exhibiting Them On Todays Hottest Source - The And Getting Your Films Online: An Indispensable Guide To Producing Your Own. Films